• Artist

Jung Jihyun (b.1983) graduated from Chung-Ang University's Department of Photography (2010) and obtained a master's degree (2016). He later completed his Ph.D. program in the Department of Arts at the same graduate school (2019). Jung Jihyun works to share and record memories about the city's architecture through her photos. His artist intervenes formative in the construction site and constructs his art form by temporarily transforming elements or parts of the architecture. The walls were painted red to express that destructive sites were places of life in the past, or to transform the space by installing variable structures with building materials. What is revealed nakedly in this way is the 'inside', neither inside nor outside, of buildings we have never seen before.

• Explanation

Remodeling and Restoration Project of Modern Buildings The work carried out at the construction site filmed the processes of restoring the existing walls and covering them with new building materials. In contrast to the smooth building materials, the back wall is rough. The artist captured two contradictory building materials on camera.
